For Her. By Her. With Her In Mind

AllShe Academy is a registered 501(c)(3) nonprofit founded by Naomi Morgan to support young women and girls—particularly those from underrepresented communities—ages 13 through early career. The organization addresses gaps in mentorship, financial support, and career development by providing one-on-one mentorship, educational workshops, scholarships, and community programming designed to help participants confidently navigate school, college, and the workforce.

About the Founder

AllShe Academy was created from Naomi Morgan’s long-standing commitment to mentorship and youth development. Since her sophomore year in college, Naomi has actively mentored young women and helped students successfully transition into higher education and career pathways. At the University of Texas at San Antonio, she participated in the First-Year Experience program, supporting incoming freshmen as they adjusted to college life. She also served as a member of Women of Honor, a volunteer organization focused on women’s empowerment, and later became President of the NAACP chapter, where she led initiatives centered on leadership and community engagement.

After graduating, Naomi continued her commitment to mentorship through organizations such as Advocacy Now, where she mentored middle school girls in Missouri City, Texas. Her work has always been rooted in a simple belief: when young women are given the right guidance, resources, and support, they can become the best version of themselves.

Today, AllShe Academy expands that mission by creating a structured network of mentorship, professional development, and scholarship opportunities that empower young women to build confident, successful futures.

Our Mission

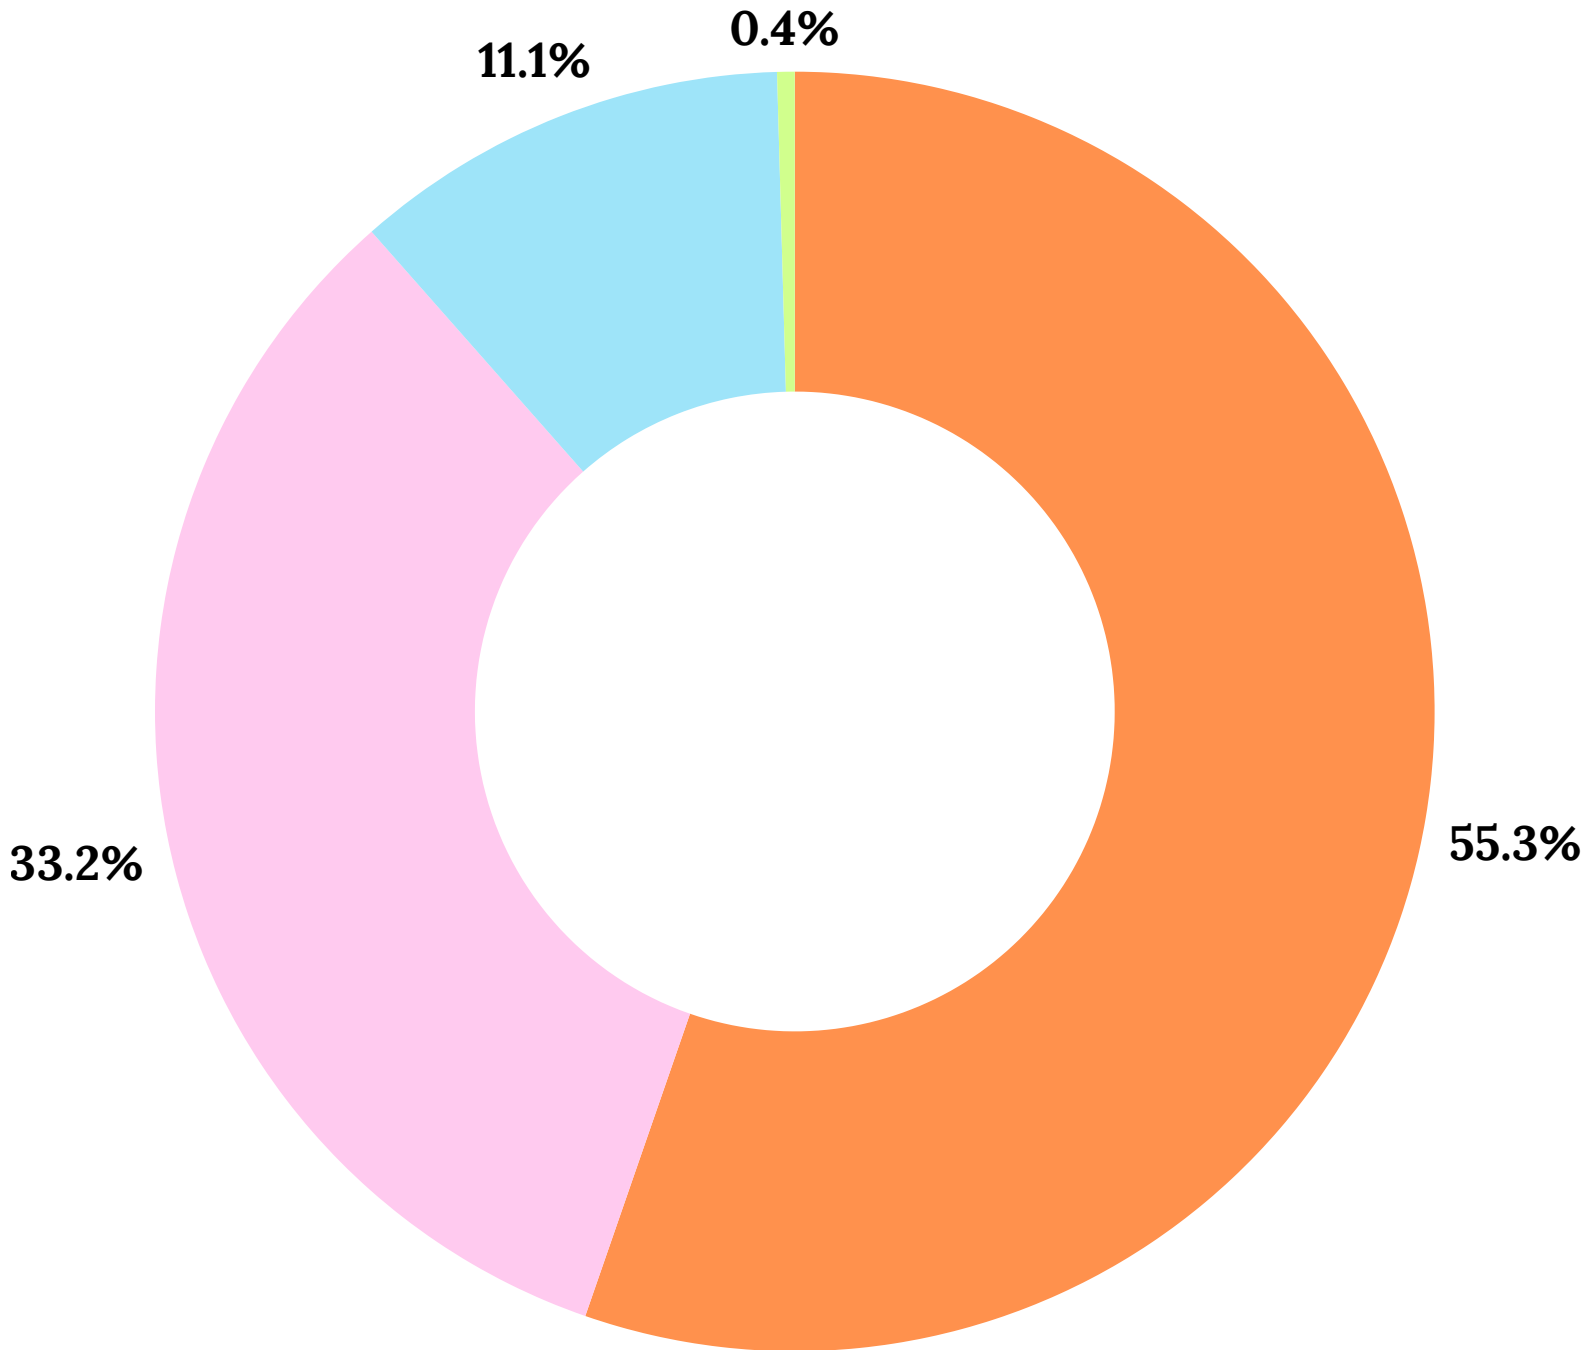

AllShe Academy aims to give young women & business owners an economic advantage through financial literacy, networking, mentorship, and career development. Mentors empower students through personalized advice and industry insights, enhancing their employability, networking skills, and overall confidence for a successful transition to professional life.

The Problem We Face

Quality mentoring has profound impacts on the lives of young people in so many areas ranging from academics and professional pursuits to personal development. Studies have shown that girls envision their future based on role models they can see no matter the age or background. According to another study by Forbes, 87% of mentors and mentees feel empowered by the relationship and reported greater confidence and satisfaction. Thus, improving the leadership skills of mentors while helping others excel in their careers and personal life.

Many young girls lack access to mentors, and this is where All She Academy bridges that gap. We link girls to strong mentors who could help direct the course of their life in line with their dreams. Giving them all-round knowledge and engaging them in activities to improve their ability to network and grow to be independent women.
